YORK COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE (AS IT IS NOW).

York Collegiate Institute.

MORE than twenty-seven years ago Mr. Samuel Small, Sr., then one of York's most venerable and honored citizens, conceived the idea of providing, in his own town, means for a liberal education of its youth. While his heart was full of the project, it happened that he and his estimable wife attended an anniversary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, at Norwich, Conn. The Norwich Free Academy, in its general design and appointments, seemed to embody almost his own ideas. Its managers offered him every facility in pursuit of his inquiries, and afterwards one of its patrons, then Governor Buckingham, of Connecticut, wrote him fully of its merits. Mr. Small returned to York with renewed zeal to follow out his long cherished ideas.

The present site on the north-east corner of South Duke Street and what has since been known as College Avenue was chosen, and in 1873 the corner-stone of the first building was laid. As it neared completion steps were taken to perfect the organization of the institute.

On Monday evening, April 14, 1873, by invitation of Mr. Small, the following persons met in the chapel of the Presbyterian church of York, viz.: Rev. H. E. Niles, pastor of the church, Mr. Small's fellow Elders: Jas. W. Kerr, M. D., David E. Small, John M. Brown; also, Messrs. Samuel Small, Jr., James Kell, Henry L. Fisher, W. Latimer Small, Samuel Hersh, and Jacob H. Huber. The above named persons, together with Mr. John H. Small, Rev. J. Cowhick, Rev. C. W. Stewart, and Rev. C. P. Wing, D. D., were named as trustees. At the same meeting Mr. Samuel Small, Sr., was chosen President, Rev. H. E. Niles, Secretary and Samuel Small, Jr., Treasurer. H. L. Fisher and James Kell, Esqs., were appointed a committee to obtain a charter.

At a meeting in the following August Rev. James McDougall, of Long Island, N. Y., was elected President and Samuel B. Heiges, of York, Pa., Professor of Mathematics and Natural Sciences. On September 15 the Institute was opened for students, with the following instructors, viz.: Miss S. L. Otis, English; Rev. P. Anstadt, German; Miss M. E. Prince, Music. The dedication service and inauguration of officers took place Monday, Nov. 3, 1873, at 3 p. m., Rev. H. E. Niles presiding.

The Institute, thus established and equipped, continued without serious change until the year 1885, when two noteworthy events marked its history.

The first was the death of the venerable Founder and President of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Samuel Small, Sr., who passed to his rest on the 14th of July, nearly eighty-six years of age.

BLUE AND GRAY.

SAMUEL SMALL, SR., FOUNDER AND FIRST PRES. OF TRUSTEES.

The other was the total destruction of the Institute building by fire on the night of December 17th.

The founder's nephews, Messrs. George Small, W. Latiimer Small and Samuel Small, at once came to the rescue and determined to rebuild.

The York County Hospital was providentially vacant and was immediately made ready for the school, which it continued to accommodate until the new building was completed, in March, 1887.

The new building, designed by J. A. Dempwolf, was dedicated on Tuesday evening, March 15, 1887.

In the memorial hall, under the portrait of the founder, there is a polished brass plate with this inscription:

YORK COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.
BUILT BY SAMUEL SMALL A. D. 1871.
DESTROYED BY FIRE DEC. 17, 1885.
REBUILT BY HIS NEPHEWS A. D. 1886.
IN AFFECTIONATE MEMORY OF HIS CHARACTER AS A CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN.

The new structure occupies the same site as its predecessor; but in the new design many defects of the old building have been removed and many improvements made, which add greatly to its capacity and convenience.

Adjacent to the main building, and connected by a corridor, are the Physical and Chemical laboratories.

On October 9, 1892, the Institute was stricken with another sad loss in the death of its President, Rev. James McDougall, Ph. D., who, from its very beginning, had labored most faithfully, wisely and efficiently for its advancement.

Prof. A. B. Carner, A. B., A. M., successfully filled the office of President from October 13, 1892, to June, 1893.

The following year Rev. E. T. Jeffers, D. D., of Oil City, Pa., was elected President of the Faculty. From that time to this he has most effectually exerted his best efforts to promote the welfare of the school.

Thus the school, founded in faith and prayer, has wrought faithfully and successfully for the church and the world through more than a quarter of a century. Standing, as it does, for character, high scholarship, noble manhood and womanhood, it has wielded a silent but positive influence, permeating, uplifting and stimulating all who have been brought under its care.

NOTE.—For the greater portion of the above article we are very much indebted to the authors of former publications of the school.

P R E F A C E

THE Board of Editors hereby presents its loyal greetings to Faculty, Alumni, student body and all other friends of the York Collegiate Institute. We have, as far as lay in our power, aimed at accuracy in statistical reports, and good-natured wit in literary features. We are very much indebted to the other members of the class in particular, and to the other students in general, for the hearty response they have made to our requests. Ours was a labor of love; and we sincerely trust that our feeble efforts will be a pleasure to our many friends, a benefit to our beloved Alma Mater, and an honor to the class of 1901.

CLASS HISTORY.

THE long looked for 1900 has arrived at last, and 1901 is not far away. We are now in our last year's work, and soon will leave the Y. C. I.—some of us, probably, for ever. It is with a feeling of regret and sadness that we write our last brief history, and turn away from all our past experience.

Time has passed rapidly. It seems but a short time since we began our career in the Y. C. I., and here is the beginning of the end. It only remains for us to recount our past years' deeds. When the class of 1901 organized, there were prospects of a very large class; but as we neared the finish, our numbers were thinned. Some were prompted to give up the race, because of the hard work before them; and others were forced to give up the race on account of existing conditions which they could not control.

It hath pleased God in His infinite wisdom, to take from us our beloved classmate, Harry Ettie Kennard. We bow in our sad bereavement, in submission to our merciful God.

Class Poem.

THE BLUE AND GRAY.

Our eyes love color, and the heart is stirred
By hues and tints that shimmer in the light
From nodding flowers or lustrous plumaged birds,
Or from the gorgeous clouds at fall of night.

So troops and comrades love their hopes to blend
About some banner floating fair and high,
Whose fluttering colors to the world commend
The cause for which brave men would live, or die.

The Blue and Gray! Once o'er a stricken land
They bannered troops in deadly conflict. Now
They float in clouds and azure of the sky,
While former foes their brotherhood avow.

In clouds and azure! How the fleecy gray
Across the deep immensity of blue
Is swept by summer winds in rifts and racks
Of beauty, ever old and ever new.

And now the class of nineteen hundred one
Unfurls its pageantry of Blue and Gray.
Beneath these colors waving clear and true
We mean to win our high appointed way.

c.

Personalia.

VINCENT MADDUX.

VINCENT MADDUX claims Glen Rock as his home, but whether or not Glen Rock claims him has never been known. He has quite a faculty for politics; he is excellent at "polling." His forte is mathematics; and his aim in life is to be mathematical instructor in the Glen Rock High School. "Mad" has never any spare moments. He is very popular among his lady friends.

WALTER AUGUSTUS COOK, variety artist, stands second on our roll. "Cookie's" only fault is that he studies too hard.(?) Latin and Trigonometry are his hobbies, though he by no means despises foot-ball and the ladies. His spare moments are taken up in building air castles. When his course is done here he has not yet decided whether to go to college or get married.

WALTER AUGUSTUS COOK.

BLUE AND GRAY.

HORACE BUDDING.

HORACE BUDDING is first in name, first in size, and first in all his classes—upside down. "Bud's" paternal mansion lies in one of the beautiful suburbs of Yorkana. "Pink" has been budding for a long time and, now, finally, bids fair to be Yorkana's leading politician. He is quite fond of fishing and is full of remarkable anecdotes of his personal prowess with the rod and line.

GEORGE A. JESSOP.

GEORGE A. JESSOP well deserves that illustrious name—George, for he is first in foot-ball, first at the table and first in the hearts of his lady friends. "Whitey" had a cinch while he was living on his family's reputation. But alas! he has decided to take Sophomore algebra in his Junior year (just for fun?). He will probably either be a barn burner, an insurance agent or a comedian.

BLUE AND GRAY.

RALPH A. GARRISON.

RALPH A. GARRISON, one of our editors-in-chief, hails from the "City of Brotherly Love." Like all Philadelphians, Garry is slow except on the track. A number of professions are open to "Garry." He thus far has been unable to decide between the ministry and art. We advise him to follow the ministry, as a minister has the biggest "pull" in the matrimonial world. On the other hand, he would soon become "poor but famous," as an artist, for he can draw anything but money.

MISS MARY HANFORD ELY.

BLUE AND GRAY.

MARY HANFORD ELY, born in Columbia, the gem of the Susquehanna, is the daughter of Rev. G. W. Ely, of the First Presbyterian Church. She is distinguished for the never-failing conversational accomplishment of wagging her ears. If in the future she is not wagging her ears for Barnum, she will make her mark in the world as a Greek teacher in some prominent college. She likes pie and angel-cake.

MISS KATHERINE HELENE SMALL.

KATHERINE HELENE SMALL, our gifted Prima Donna, has such winning ways that those whom she does not draw by her voice she draws with her pencil. She will either excel Jennie Lind or rival C. D. Gibson. She is a leader in the Alpha Alpha, and has a good record in the Y. W. C. A. Her future is uncertain. She is thinking very seriously of getting married, when her Ulysses returns from the City of Brotherly Love.

MISS SUSAN SMYSER MYERS.

SUSAN SMYSER MYERS, the most calm and sweet-tempered girl of our class, has the interests of mankind always at heart. If she does not enlist under Ballington Booth, she will probably go to China and endeavor to imbue the hearts and minds of our Eastern sisters in the proper manner of governing—what?

BLUE AND GRAY.

MISS SOPHIA FREY EISENHART.

SOPHIA FREY EISENHART, the daughter of Dr. K. L. Eisenhart, of York, Pa., is noted for her love of dress and her accomplishments, which are so numerous that they can not be mentioned. She takes the things of the world in a cheerful manner, particularly the fact that she must eat a peck of earth in a year. In the future she will probably either be noted as a leader in fashion or as a second rate actress.

MISS MATILDA MAY WELLER.

MATILDA MAY WELLER, our illustrious class leader, who hails from Wrightsville, a small village along the Susquehanna, is a descendant of the famous Samuel Weller and has his prominent traits of character. Without her we could not live. She is balm to all our wounds. If she does not become a great literary genius, she will be matron in one of the largest hospitals in our land.

ALPHA ALPHA SOCIETY.

THE PHI SIGMA SOCIETY, which is maintained by the young men of the school, is one of the best of the auxiliaries of the Institute. It holds weekly meetings of a literary character, in Cassat Library, which are conducted strictly in accordance with Parliamentary rules. The last two years were among the best in the history of the Society, both in regard to the number of students and the amount of earnest, honest work done by the individual members, and it can clearly be seen that this year will far excel them, both in the number of names enrolled and in the interest which the members take in the welfare of the Society.

The literary programme of each evening has been rendered in such a manner as to signify the determination of each member to make this the banner year.

The advantages gained by being a member are not slight. The Society is founded on mutual helpfulness; the aim of each member is to promote the prosperity of the Society and secure the best results to each of his fellow-members.

An evening reception, or soiree, is held semi-annually, in Cassat Library, for invited guests. These occur in the latter part of January and the early part of June, respectively; and the question most frequently "popped" at the smiling Phi Sigmite is not "Are you well this morning?" "Can you lend me a quarter?" "Where were you last night?" nor is it any such ordinary question, but History.

WHEN the Continental Congress held its meetings in York, from September, 1777, to June, 1778, the Court House was used as a place of assembly. The building has disappeared—torn down more than fifty years ago. The door-way, through which John Hancock, Laurens, Adams, Witherspoon and the other illustrious representatives of the struggling colonies, were accustomed to enter for the daily meetings, has been preserved, and can be seen in the Music Room of the Collegiate Institute. The sketch on this page gives a good idea of this valuable relic.

Young Men's Christian Association.

THE work done by the Association during the past year has been superior in every respect. It has presented a solid phalanx for Christ and the church. We could not make an estimate of the good accomplished during the past year.

A meeting is held every Monday afternoon at 3:30, and have short talks by members of the Faculty, Alumni and students on up-to-date subjects.

These meetings are attended by the greater part of the fellows, and a brotherly love and fellowship permeate the whole. The Association was represented at Northfield by R. A. Garrison, Class '01, who came from that well-spring of spirituality brimful of ideas, which were presented by him to the school in two exceedingly interesting talks.

The annual reception, held in the Library September 14, was well attended by the Alumni and students.

Another very interesting feature of this Association is a thriving Bible class, which is taught by Geo. M. Rynick, the Secretary of the City Y. M. C. A. The study for the ensuing year consists of a detail study of the life of Christ by Andrew Murray.

ANOTHER promoter of the spiritual interests of the school is the Y. W. C. A., which has continued its labors of love for many years. We are pleased to notice that the Alumni take such an ardent interest in its welfare.

Miss Heinly, who represented the Association at the Northfield Conference in July, gave an interesting report to the members of the Association.

School Boarding House.

WE take this opportunity to enlighten our many friends afflicted with dreadful nausea and hateful dyspepsia, as well as all such as are over-burdened by their portion of "adepts," by calling their attention to the fact that the manager of the Boarding House has accidentally discovered a new and sure cure for the above-named ailments.

Having ourselves had varied experiences in this line, we know how to sympathize with all similarly afflicted persons.

The method, mode, or manner in which this was thought out, dreamed out, or brought about, is one of the unsolved mysteries of the 20th century; but it is usually attributed to the over-zealous disposition of the management to declare dividends in the shortest possible time.

The method of cure, which you are requested to keep a profound secret, is as follows:

It consists in properly dieting the patient.

The following is the bill of fare:

BILL.

From $2.00 to $4.50 a week.

FAIRE.

Breakfast, } A roll,—in bed.

Supper, ... } 2 ozs. distilled rain water.

Dinner, } $\frac{1}{2}$ gill Ambrosian Hash.
 } 3 ozs. perforated "Angel Food."

Thus it is clearly seen that the theory of this cure is that by giving the stomach a long rest, the nerves are strengthened, the blood purified, and the hair dyed to a sable black.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN, we wish to say in conclusion that samples may be seen at 204 S. Duke St. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons, between 3:30 and 5 P. M.

All information desired will be cheerfully furnished. Write for Catalogue of 1901,

ATHLETICS.

Athletic Association.

EVERY evening, when the weather permits, a good crowd of stalwart athletes assemble on the campus, who are determined, at any odds, to perpetuate the time-honored fame of the Athletic Association won by former students. They have not only done this, but, inspired by the many trophies of former victories, which adorn our walls, they press forward to far greater achievements.

The Association deserves, and receives, the hearty cöoperation of the students. Under the present management we may feel assured that many victories will be scored in the different lines of athletics. The record of this year's foot-ball team far surpasses its predecessors, and the relay team is determined to scratch ahead of the other fellows. The relay work is one of the most interesting features of the Association. On account of sickness this part of the athletics was dropped last year, but the hereditary greed for relay pennants has again manifested itself in the form of a resolution made by some of the staunch sprinters, not to let this line of athletics die out. We guarantee these true sons of the Y. C. I. our hearty support, and we are theirs for success.

At 2:45 the coin was tossed up and the High School won the toss. They chose to defend the west goal. The teams then lined up, the umpire's whistle blew and the game was on. Yost kicked off to Reichley on High School's 20 yard line. Reichley gained 8 yards through left tackle. Immel gained 4 yards. Frey added 4 yards more. Frey then kicked. Emig caught the ball and advanced it 3 yards. Jessop skirted right end for ten. Yost gained 4 more. Again Yost ran right end for 25 yards. Then both Diehl and Yost lost, but Anderson made that good by going through left tackle for 5 yards. Yost gained 9 more, after which Emig went over the line for a touchdown, from which Yost kicked a goal, five minutes after the start of the game. Score 6-0 in favor of the College.

Frey kicked off and the ball went over the line. It was brought back to the College's 25 yard line. The College then started to rush it. Garrison gained 25 yards around left end. Emig went through right tackle for 3 yards. Yost added 5 yards through right tackle, and then fumbled the ball, but quickly fell on it. Garrison gained four through left tackle. The ball was given to High School because the College quarter back did not let Anderson touch it. The High School kept gaining 5 yards at a time by playing the turtle back until they got to the College 30 yard line, when they ran Immel around right end for a loss of 4 yards. Frey then kicked. The ball was blocked by the College, but Immel fell on it. Immel then gained 3 yards, after which the High School again put in good use the turtle back play. Frey kicked 25 yards to Emig, who advanced it 5 yards. Garrison gained 8 yards; Jessop lost 3 yards; Yost fumbled on High School's 15 yards line, and Immel got the ball. Reichley gained 15 yards. The College then got the ball. Diehl, Jessop and Anderson gained. Yost kicked and Frey got the ball out of bounds, when the whistle blew for the end of the first half.

The second half began by the College defending the west goal. Frey kicked 30 yards to Dise, who advanced it 5 yards. Dise then gained 10 yards more, Anderson 4 yards and Dise 4 yards. Anderson made a beautiful run around left end for 35 yards; Yost 6 yards, and Garrison 5. Yost then went over the line for the second touchdown. He again kicked the goal, making the score 12-0.

Frey kicked off to Jessop, who gained 8 yards. Anderson added 2 yards more. He again made 5 more through left tackle. Dise went through right tackle for 15, Yost 9, Garrison 3, Dise 4 yards, Emig 2, Dise 3, Anderson 10, Yost 5, and Emig 2 yards. Then Garrison went over for the third and last touchdown. Yost failed to kick the goal. Final score 17-0.

Frey then kicked off and after the ball changed hands quite frequently and with small gains for both sides, the ball was in possession of the College on the High School's 20 yard line, when time was called and the game ended.

The line up was as follows:

In Memoriam.

HARRY ETTLE KENNARD.

Born 1876.

Died Dec. 11, 1899.

DEATH has claimed this our beloved classmate, and heavily has the touch of Divine will afflicted the hearts of those who had known the whole-souled, generous nature of H. E. KENNARD. As classmates we cherish tenderly the memories of his life as a loyal and devoted member of 1901, and a true son of the Y. C. I. Our deepest sympathies go out to his bereaved family, and with them we bow our hearts in submissive sorrow before Him, who doeth all things well.

OSCAR SCHWANSKOVSKY.

Born June 5, 1885.

Died Aug. 19, 1900.

SINCE it hath pleased God, in His unerring wisdom, to remove from us our beloved schoolmate and friend, OSCAR SCHWANSKOVSKY, we do hereby express our great sorrow for this loss; and do extend our heartfelt sympathy to his parents and many friends, in this, their sad bereavement.

A School Biography.

BY A. B. C.

A truthful sketch of Rusticus Garumnus,
Of Cross-Roads district school a proud alumnus.

"He knows it all," but leaves his native village

To give his mental powers some further tillage.

Entrance examinations first confound him,
And English grammar questions quite astound
him;

He fares no better in the "Latin Quarter,"
And finds arithmetic a cruel slaughter.

At length, "conditioned" here and there, he passes

And enters on his work in various classes.

Anon he finds that boarding-house relations
Involve peculiar social obligations.

His door must open to the passing pleasure,
By day or night, of students at their leisure.
His keys and "ponies" are quite freely taken:
His bed, at times, seems by some earthquake shaken.

* * * * *

At length there comes a day of days:—

Phi Sigma's glory charms him;

He longs to know her pleasant ways,
Albeit her fame alarms him.

A trembling week has passed, and then

He's told of his election.

But he must wait another week—

A week of great dejection;

For what he hears in rumors vague

Of goats and ghosts, would harrow

A bloody Choctaw's steady nerve,

Or freeze an umpire's marrow.

An anxious fortnight now has sped,

And he waits at the portal

Of Phi Sig's solemn, mystic hall,

A pale and nerveless mortal.

The ceremonies that admit

Within those precincts hidden,

'Tis not for alien pen to trace,

Nor tongue to speak unbidden.

Let it suffice to know that when,

Initiation over,

Our hero found his bones all whole

He thought himself in clover.

His first soiree comes into view

And Rusticus opineth

That he will take (of course) Miss X,

Miss X, alas, declineth.

No whit abashed, nor quite au fail,

He next, in turn, declareth

He'll ask Miss Y,—and then Miss Z,—

No better yet he fareth.

And so, at last, he comes—a "tag,"

But soothes his desolation

And fills the vast and aching void

With icy consolation.

But he much wiser grows in time,

And with determination

Takes Greek, and Math, and everything

As means of cultivation.

And when another soiree comes

He makes no fumbling passes,

But brings the fairest girl in town—

His pick among the lasses.

And when his Senior dignities

Come crowding thick upon him,

How underclassmen stand in awe

As final honors crown him.

* * * * *

Exit dear old Senior—so life goes;

This sketch is not all fancy, each heart knows.

The school is but a bright epitome

Of life—and life of yon eternity.

When in the serious years you take your part

Keep warm the school-day memories in your heart,

And, as your mead is filled with cares and joys,—

Send back to us your blooming girls and boys.
